

Anti-circumcision group demonstrates in Little Rock

BY Max Brantley ON April 6, 2016 8:57 pm

Yes, that was a small group of men demonstrating against child circumcision at University and Markham today.

They are from a group called Blood Stained Men.

I'd had a warning they were coming from a Little Rock resident who ran into their protest a few days ago in Shreveport.

Demonstrators held signs some even wore bloodstained suits for a dramatic effect.

The group's Facebook page notes their goal is to raise awareness about what they describe as "the horrors of infant circumcision."

The non-profit organization says it is dedicated to educating Americans about the importance of the foreskin.

Want some medical science on the debate? Here's the Mayo Clinic.

Max Brantley

Senior editor of the Arkansas Times.
